'Ladies' safety assured'

Hancock historians pledge reenactment of '76 program

By JAKE JACOB

"The ladies are assured that the best of order will be preserved, as the entire proceeding will be under the charge of the Grand Marshal of the day, Col. D. S. Dewees, and a corps of competent assistants."

This was the promise made to the ladies of Hancock County by the One Hundredth Anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence by the Centennial Celebration Committee, J. V. Toulme, N. Monet, and R. B. Avery, upon occasion of the Grand Centennial Ball, staged July 4th, 1876 at the Court House.

Norton Haas, installed as president of the Hancock County Historical Society Monday by Judge J. Ruble Griffin, read out the "promise to the ladies," on the suggestion that the group reenact the Centennial Program on July 4 of this year.

Griffin, prior to his installing 1976 Bicentennial Year officers, talked on the life of Gen. Robert E. Lee, whose birthday that day was being honored by a state holiday.

"Lee," Griffin said, "stood only five feet eleven inches tall, but he had the bearing and manner of a natural leader."

In a letter to his son, Lee wrote "Duty is the most sublime word in our language. Do your duty in all things," the judge read.

Others installed by Judge Griffin were Lionel Baxter, vice president, history; and Mrs. Dominic, San Fillippo, publicity.

Society officers previously installed and serving their second year include Louis Fernandez, vice president, pre-history; Mrs. Jack McComiskey, secretary; Mrs. Lloyd Griffith, historian; Mrs. William Hilliker,

Sheriff's deputies excluded

Hancock supervisors vote pay raises

By CAROLE LANGE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors voted Monday to grant a $50-per-month pay raise for six sheriff's department employees, but denied a request for a salary increase for the department's eight deputies.

Sheriff Sylvan Ladner told the board that all of the salary increases, including the deputies, could come from his present budget "if it was revised a little."

The increase, effective immediately, will bring salaries to $450 per month for the four radio operators, secretary, and jailer. Had it been approved, the deputies increase would have been from $700 to $725 per month.

Sheriff Ladner made the request after he received a note of resignation from his secretary, who said she had been offered a position paying $100 more per month. He said in the past year, he has lost five radio operators due to the low salary scale.

The board also voted to give themselves a raise Monday, bringing their annual salaries from $9,200 to $10,600.

Included in the pay hike were Tax Assessor-Collector George Heitzman, who went from $16,000 to $18,000 and Chancery Clerk John Rutherford.

Rutherford was raised to $1,500 for his duties as board clerk, $3,600 for his chancery clerk duties, and $5,800 for his job as county auditor.

Board president Dolph Kellar pointed out that all of the increases were required by law since the county passed the $35 million mark in assessed valuation.

Some dispute evolved at the meeting concerning the office of county ranger.

Sheriff Ladner said his department has been responsible for the office for the last four years, however, he added that he thought the position had been transferred to the jurisdiction of county coroner. To settle the matter, the board voted to write the Attorney General asking for a ruling.

In other business, Mrs. Clifford Backlund, representing the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc. asked the board to update a resolution passed in 1973 calling for laws restricting the ownership of animals.

After reading the '73 resolution, the board voted to prepare a newer version for the Humane Society to use when lobbying for funding of an animal shelter.

On the motion of James Travirca, beat five supervisor, the board voted to accept a resolution presented by Terrell Randolph, county superintendent of education, asking for additional space for the superintendent's office.

Randolph said the board is currently paying $175 rent, and the additional space would raise the rent to $250. When he made the motion, Travirca stipulated that the board consider

Rain dampens inaugural, but lunch stays dry

By CAROLE LANGE

JACKSON—Rain fell on Gov. Cliff Finch's inaugural parade Tuesday, but it failed to dampen the spirits of the estimated 3,000 spectators who huddled against the cold to watch the inauguration of Mississippi's 57th governor.

A parade consisting of numerous bands, bulldozers, and lunchbox styled floats wound its way through downtown Jackson before disbanding near Finch's reviewing stand on Mississippi St. in front of the Capitol. Due to the cold, Finch and his family only remained for approximately 30 minutes of the morning parade, but were scheduled to witness the afternoon parade in its entirety.

A host of politicians made the rounds of the Capitol grounds preceding the official ceremonies, shaking hands and swapping stories with their constituents.

As the press scrambled for camera positions and the white carnation sporting colonels of Finch's crew jostled each other for choice standing room only spots, members of the state legislature filed out of the Capitol to take their seats in front of the red, white, and blue draped speaker's stand. As was stated in the official program, the ceremonies began promptly at 11:15 a.m. with several rousing selections by the 41st Army Band of the Mississippi National Guard.

Rep. C.B. "Buddie" Newman, Speaker of the House, called the chilled crowd to order at 11:30 and introduced Lt. Gov. Evelyn Gandy who in turn introduced those seated on the speaker's platform.

Among the dignitaries were former Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett and John Bell Williams, Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards, representatives from the states of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, and Tennessee, U.S. Congressmen Thad Cochran, David Bowen, Trent Lott, G.V. "Sonny" Montgomery, and Jamie Whitten, and U.S. Senator John C. Stennis, who received a standing ovation following his introduction. Sen. James O. Eastland sent a telegram congratulating Finch and explained that his duties as President Pro Tempore of the U.S. Senate prevented him from attending.

Lt. Gov. Gandy, dressed in a light-weight wool suit despite the chilly temperatures, then introduced Gov. Bill Waller. Waller spoke only a few minutes and did not allude to his past four years as governor, however he issued a challenge to Finch, "the workingman's candidate" to see that Mississippi "keeps a progressive foot forward."

Following swearing-in ceremonies at high noon by Judge Robert Gillespie, Chief Justice of the Mississippi Supreme Court, Gov. Finch, still smiling, stood surrounded by his wife and four children as the Fourth Bn. 114th Field Artillery of the National Guard startled many of the spectators with a 21 cannon salute.

When the smoke from the cannons cleared away, the morning's drizzle turned into rain and Gov. Finch began his brief inaugural address.

During the 13 minute speech, Gov. Finch praised the workingmen of Mississippi as "giants in American history." Beginning his term of office in 1976 held "special, symbolic meaning" for him, Finch said, as he joined other Americans in celebrating the nation's Bicentennial.

The new governor did not outline his legislative program during the speech but announced that he would do so during a Thursday night address before a joint session of the Legislature.

Inauguration ceremonies concluded at 12:20 and the spectators hurriedly sought warmth inside the already crowded ground floor of the Capitol.

For those who felt so inclined, a free barbecue chicken lunch was planned for 1:30 at the fairgrounds, to be followed by the second parade at 3 p.m.

Four inaugural balls were held that evening including a youth ball, a formal ball, and a square dance.

When the crowd began to disperse from the Capitol grounds, a huge traffic jam blocked many of the arteries leading from downtown Jackson to the highway. From somewhere amid the bumper to bumper traffic a plaintive cry of "Don't blame me, I voted for Gil!" was directed at no one in particular.

Hancock colonels

Twenty seven Hancock Countians have been named colonels on Gov. Cliff Finch's staff.

Although the post is regarded as honorary, colonels are solicited for a $200 donation according to a member of the governor's staff. Trappings of the title include a certificate, wallet-sized commission, medal, car decal and license tag. The license tags, seen on many cars at Tuesday's inauguration ceremonies in Jackson, picture a large blue lunch box on a white background with the word "colonel" in bright red letters.

"The biggest honor in being a colonel is that you act as a source of information for the governor and participate by invitation in the social functions of the Office," a member said.

Hancock County colonels from Bay St. Louis include Ladner, Fred Curet, E. P. Exnicious, Mike Ladner, Mike Haas, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Gex, Ronnie Artigues, Perry Gibson, Larry J. Bennett, Lucien Kidd, Russell J. Elliot, E. J. Marengo, Sydney Sandoz, Don Murray, Hugh Sanford, Sam Pernicario, Pat Toomey, Paul Bailey, Mrs. Princess Fahey, George Heitzmann, and John Rutherford.

Also named from Hancock County were Earl Cazaubon and Murphy Maddux, Waveland; Irving Lacoste, Kiln; and Lloyd K. Moore Jr. and Dallas Goodwin, Pearlinton.

Pass residents plan subdivision protest

Residents of some of Pass Christian's highest priced and most scenic property are planning a protest against an out of town developer seeking to build a "mini-subdivision" at 931 East Scenic Drive, along U.S. Highway 90.

The group, headed by the Pass Homeowners Association and the Pass Historical Society, plan a massive turnout Thursday, Jan. 29 when the issue comes before the city's Planning and Zoning Commission for discussion and or approval.

In the meantime, petitions are being circulated among East Scenic Drive property owners in an effort to gather clout for the group.

John McCloskey, president of the Homeowners Association, explained that the group's attitude was that the development suggested by developer Bill Braun would destroy the character of Scenic Drive and would also lead to further sub-division developments.

McCloskey said that the proposal violates present zoning regulations and would be against the best interests of the city and its property owners.

The development would require the demolition of an old Victorian home on the Eslick or Martin property at the 931 Scenic Drive address.

According to plans open for public inspection at the Pass Christian City Hall, the property would be divided into 15 lots and mini-condominiums built on both sides of a landscaped drive.

McCloskey and those protesting the proposal state that under present zoning regulations the developer could meet footage requirements for subdivision of the land after a roadway was built.

County farm bureau endorses grain elevator construction

The Hancock County Farm Bureau endorsed this week a proposal by Hancock Grain Co. Inc. to construct a grain elevator at Port Bienville Industrial Park.

In a resolution, the Farm Bureau's board of directors said that the grain company "will meet the needs not only of the grain farmers of Hancock County, but also the needs of the grain farmers of a large portion of South Mississippi."

Wilson Webre, Port and Harbor Commission director, said earlier this month that the grain company has an option on 5.33 acres at the park. He said the $700,000 grain elevator is highly mechanized and will have a design capability of approximately 1.5 million bushels per year.

Improve state roads

Bentsen pushes highway bill

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Saying that programs for the construction of Federal highways and rural roads in states like Mississippi are rapidly running out of money, Senator Lloyd Bentsen (D-Texas), a candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination, urged swift approval of the Bentsen Highway Bill. Bentsen, Chairman of the Senate Transportation Subcommittee, said his measure would provide $27 million for rural roads in Mississippi. It would give the state another $28 million for construction of interstate highways such as Interstate 10 from Biloxi to the Florida border.

The two-year bill is aimed at continuing Federal road projects nationwide until the question of the Highway Trust Fund is finally decided in Washington. Both the Senate and the House have passed versions of the bill, and differences are presently being worked out by a Conference Committee.

Sen. Bentsen said, "In states like Mississippi, with its large rural population and heavily agricultural economy, there is a vital need to maintain an efficient road system. Many farmers and other rural residents are geographically and economically isolated. Without adequate transportation, goods can't be moved to market, and citizens can't get to their jobs, schools, or doctors. "The situation," Bentsen added, "is aggravated when businesses are reluctant to locate or remain in areas suffering from poor transportation facilities."

The Federal Aviation Agency has passed rules which govern how much more noise jet airplanes can make," Dr. Bass explained. "Our research has helped determine to what degree atmospheric conditions affect sound which is heard on the ground, and the data can be used to predict the noise level of new aircraft."

He added that by examining sound waves created by lightning the team should know the process by which sound is formed.

The UM researchers have also analyzed three recordings of violent sounds.

"Our analysis suggests a contribution to the sounds from transfer of almost a continuous nature," Dr. Bass said. "We would also like to investigate thunder events associated with severe weathering storm cells which

Sunshine causes two UM profs to frown

UNIVERSITY, Miss. — For two Ole Miss professors, thunderstorms are good news while blue skies and sunshine produce frowns.

The two, Dr. Roy Arnold and Dr. Henry Bass of the Physics Department, are conducting research on the acoustic spectrum of thunder with grant support from the Office of Naval Research. Using microphone, sound recorder and a timer at a field station, they "basically watch for lightning."

The research began in 1973 with an analysis of recordings of thunder and correlation of the power spectrum for atmospheric absorption. "Our study provided a more accurate power spectrum for thunder and a better understanding of the information which can be obtained about atmospheric conditions from an analysis of the acoustic power spectrum," said Dr. Bass.

He added that by examining sound waves created by lightning the team should know the process by which sound is formed.

The UM researchers have also analyzed three recordings of violent sounds.

"Our analysis suggests a contribution to the sounds from transfer of almost a continuous nature," Dr. Bass said. "We would also like to investigate thunder events associated with severe weathering storm cells which

Sweets result in tooth decay, claims State dentistry chief

Dr. Aaron Trubman, director, Division of Public Health Dentistry, Mississippi State Board of Health, said yesterday this is time to emphasize "the preventive measures available to reduce common dental health problems of children - tooth decay and to a lesser extent, periodontal disease (affecting the gums)."

"Parents and communities must utilize all possible measures to reduce the incidence of tooth decay and periodontal disease," said Dr. Trubman. "In this way we can prevent our children from suffering needlessly, as well as lessening the strain on the family's budget to pay for excessive corrective dentistry."

He said there are several ways in which tooth decay and periodontal disease can be reduced in both children and adults. Effective removal of dental plaque by proper tooth-brushing and dental flossing is one method.

Dental plaque is a sticky, nearly transparent film continuously forming on the teeth. It is composed mostly of bacteria, saliva and debris.

"When sugars ordinarily eaten come in contact with certain bacteria found in plaque, acid, which can begin the tooth decay process, forms almost immediately," Dr. Trubman said.

He said the plaque builds up along the gum line leading to damaged, inflamed gums, adding, "A dentist can show you how to effectively remove this plaque."

Fluorides have proved to be the most effective way of reducing tooth decay. The benefits of fluorides can be obtained by fluoridation of community water supplies and topical applications, including the use of fluoride toothpastes and mouthrinses. The most effective and least costly of these is community water fluoridation.

In choosing a fluoride toothpaste, the doctor advised selecting one which has been determined effective by the Council on Dental Therapeutics of the American Dental Association, as noted by a statement on the toothpaste.

"Cut down on sweets, especially between meals," said Dr. Trubman. "Frequent eating of sweets results in constant acid attacks on the teeth, a condition that can develop into tooth decay. If sweet snacks are eaten, avoid the sticky types that remain on the teeth for a long time, especially when brushing or flossing is not possible."

"Dental diseases can be greatly reduced if individuals and communities will make the necessary efforts to utilize all of the methods available to them," he said. Dental diseases can and often do affect the ability to function in everyday life; therefore, dental health should be a high priority for every Mississippian. In connection with National Children's Dental Health Week, and other preventive campaigns, we hope to motivate people to practice oral hygiene."

Art Association plans 'happening'

Jackson - Thombai! This East Indian word signifying a "happening" has become an important word in the vocabulary of, not only Jacksonians, but also of Mississippians everywhere. Its very mention foretells the exotic and exciting "happening".

The Mississippi Art Association's annual fund-raising project, which is scheduled for Feb. 27-28 in Jackson, takes the form of a glamorous auction and has grown into the major social and fun event of the Spring season.

In order to expand the scope of Thombai, which was founded by Mrs. Richard Redmont, the event was expanded into two nights in 1974. The Friday night gala is centered around a black tie dinner and live auction. Saturday night is casual night with a silent auction for the 35 and under crowd.

Assisted by an attractive and talented corps of assistants, the chairmen, Mrs. Bill Hogg and Mrs. Buddy Sheppard, will transform the Holiday Inn into a facsimile of an "East Indian garden complete with a gazebo. Almost anything a heart could desire, including elegant clothing, fine antiques, oriental rugs, exquisite jewelry, paintings by nationally-recognized artists, and unbelievable parties and trips, will be offered on the auction block. Bargains are plentiful at Thombai auctions.

However, it's the everyday necessities which will be the real bargains. Since all items purchased are considered tax-deductible, the thrill comes when the purchases are made for the many necessary items offered which can be bought at a savings to the lucky bidder. These include birthday parties, a six week tutoring program, a telephone answering service, furniture stripping and refinishing, housecleaning services, and exercise classes.

All Thombai proceeds are used to finance the Mississippi Art Association's educational and cultural contributions to the community and to the state. Both nights are by invitation only. Persons 35 years and under have the option of purchasing a ticket for the Saturday night event only.

purchase the building in the future at a cost of $50,000.

On the recommendation of Oscar Peterson, beat three supervisor, the board voted to appoint David Peranich, Bay St. Louis, to fill the beat three vacancy on the Hospital board.

The board authorized the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission to sell 45.6 acres of land at a cost of $130,000 to Marine Concrete Structures, Inc., and granted the company an option to buy an additional 39 acres for $112,500. They also agreed to extend Borg-Warner's option on park property for an additional six months.

The board also voted to contribute 10 percent, or $2,500 to the construction of an automatic signal at the Clermont Harbor railroad crossing. The proposal was submitted by L&N Railroad, who said they would bear the rest of the approximate $25,000 cost and maintain the crossing.

Before they adjourned until February, the board endorsed the nomination of Mrs. Arnette Giles, Pearlinton as Mother of the Year for Mississippi.

Mrs. Giles was formerly national volunteer of the Year. Her nomination is sponsored by the United Way of Hancock County.

Communities view schedule

By JOE WHITE

Sunday night there weren't any vacant chairs in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Haynie, Mockingbird Lane, Gulfport. The chairs were occupied by representatives of eight Gulf Coast communities who had gathered by invitation to hear Karen Dobbs explain a proposed schedule of events in connection with the American Wind Symphony Orchestra being sponsored by our community as part of our national Bicentennial celebration.

Miss Dobbs, of Pittsburgh, Pa., is assistant to the symphony's musical director, Robert A. Boudreau. She is a brunette, slender and sort of "willowy." She explained she had been with the orchestra about four years.

Miss Dobbs made use of rather light-weight audio-visual equipment. The group saw slides and were told that during the early history of this country water traffic was the significant link of communication. An impressive figure of 26,000 miles of inland waterways was mapped and later man-made canals and channels were added.

Robert Boudreau, music director for the orchestra, hit upon the original idea in 1987 of converting a barge into a floating orchestra in order to make music available to a large number of people. The first vessel was a converted coal barge! It was named Point Counter Point (which has connotation for musicians). That vessel has since been retired and Point Counter Point II is just about ready for a christening and maiden voyage destined to begin an odyssey April 24 from the "Deadwater" Marina in Biloxi. The barge will travel the inland waterways, carrying a good musician, dancers, actors and staff with a three-part and rather ambitious goal in mind.

Point Counter Point is designed to call attention to the country's natural resources and afford all cities an opportunity to "join hands," Miss Dobbs said, as well as to entertain a large part of our population.

Speaking personally, there were a few minor goals that weren't defined very clearly.

At any rate the musicians were said to be young, averaging around 25 years of age and selected because of their professional excellence and ability to be flexible in programs and plans. Some speak no English and they are a very diverse group coming from all parts of the United States as well as a few from outside our country.

Mimeographed sheets listing the schedule of events were left with the local committee chairmen to submit a final breakdown for the approval of Boudreau. A few of the events did seem settled and firm and included the dates and times for theatre showings and the Sunday, April 25 performance of the full orchestra at the First Baptist Church of Gulfport. This church was selected because of seating capacity, excellent organ, etc.

Poets, dancers, and chamber music groups will be regarded in elementary classrooms, library rooms, and to work with local students. Boudreau plans to host and house orchestra members and prefer to place them with families who have band students in the school system. Miss Dobbs explained information would be issued prospective hosts including individual's age, instrument, sex, and whether English was spoken. It is against the policy of the management to give out color information. She said, however, she hopes Spanish speaking people will ask for musicians who speak that language. She explained, also, that news releases would be provided from Pittsburgh headquarters for local adaptation.

It looks pretty certain that Gulf Hills of Ocean Springs will host the Patrons' Concert be provided from Pittsburgh headquarters for local out of town, etc. Possibly it will be March before a definite scheduling is released, but at any rate, lovers of the Arts will want to mark April 25-30, 1976 on their calendars of "Coming Bicentennial Events."

USM'S Stress Testing Program available to diagnose physical fitness

By JERRY PARSON

HATTIESBURG — Worried about your weight? This is a very common problem in today's society. What would the weight worrier say if he never had to worry about being overweight again?

Sound like science fiction. Maybe, but not at all unlikely in the near future.

According to Kenneth H. Cooper, M.D., author of the book AEROBICS, and several other experts in the field of physical fitness and exercise, body weight is of no real importance in determining physical condition. Whereas, the proportion of body fat to overall body weight and build is the single most important factor affecting a person's health and fitness.

At the University of Southern Mississippi, the Department of Physical Education is conducting a diagnostic program to determine the average student's physical condition by utilizing a method based on body fat composition.

Dr. Wayne L. Babin, a professor of physical education at USM and director of the Stress Testing Program, said that the primary emphasis of his testing is to: 1) Assess exercise endurance, 2) detect cardiovascular irregularities,

3) provide a guide to prescriptive exercise, 4) referral to physician if necessary, and 5) measure progress and motivate through observed improvement.

"Just hopping on the scales and saying I weigh 200 pounds doesn't tell you anything. If it's all muscle that's desirable, but if it's all fat, then it is very undesirable," Babin explained.

Fundamentally the stress testing program entails determining a person's body fat composition, blood pressure, heart rate, lung volume, overall body strength and endurance.

The entire test takes anywhere from 15 to 30 minutes, depending upon the individual.

Babin said, "after the testing is completed, we plug all of the measurements we have made into a physical assessment formula that tells us what kind of condition our subject is in. Then depending upon an individual's fitness we recommend various different types of exercise programs, and set up an evaluation appointment for approximately six months later."

"We don't just say go out and run a mile or exercise for 20 minutes a day," explained Mike Grey, assistant director of the program. "We give each person a target heart rate relative to their physical condition, and we show them how to make a 10-second check of this rate by using the carotid artery, an artery in the neck. If you maintain the pulse rate we suggest for the exercise time recommended, your physical condition will improve at a stable, but noticeable degree."

The program is open to all USM students, faculty and staff or anyone concerned with improving their physical condition.

In order for the stress testing program to be carried out in as safe and efficient manner as possible, the only requirement is that the subject's physician must sign a statement explaining the stress test and verifying that the subject's physical status is such that the test would not be harmful to his or her health.

"What we hope to do eventually is to establish a testing clinic where we would provide a service in cooperation with local physicians. Once we have our own EKG capability, a board of physicians with a cardiologist on it could be set up and we could treat cardiac patients," Babin said.

Merchants promotes three to vice president

Three officers of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co. have received promotions to new posts as vice presidents, according to Guy Billups, chairman of the board of Merchants.

The three are former assistant vice presidents: Exton R. Johnson, James L. Rogers, and Gerald L. Young, all of Gulfport.

The promotions were all effective immediately.

Johnson joined Merchants in March of 1972 as a loan officer and was later promoted to assistant vice president. He received a B.A. degree in Business Administration from Mississippi State University in 1963.

He is president of the Orange Grove Civilians, treasurer of the Gulfport Exchange Club, vice president of the Gulf Coast Chapter of the American Institute of Banking, treasurer of the Orange Grove Youth Association and is active in other civic and business affairs.

A native of Clarksdale, he is married to the former Julia Hughes of that city. They have been residents of Gulfport for the past 12 years and are parents of four children. The family are members of First Baptist Church of Gulfport.

Rogers served as loan officer for the past two years previous to his promotion. A native of Gulfport, he is a graduate of Gulfport High School and Perkinson Jr. College.

He is president of the Gulfport Civilians and a member of the Polar Star Masonic Lodge No. 154.

He and his wife Janet live in Gulfport and are also members of the First Baptist Church.

Young is presently manager of the Long Beach branch of Merchants and has been associated with the bank since 1974.

He received a B.S. degree in Business Administration from the University of Southern Mississippi and is also a graduate of the Mississippi School of Banking at the University of Mississippi.

He is a member of the American Institute of Banking, director of the Tri State chapter of Bank Administration Institute and a member and past president of the Gulfport Optimist Club. He is also Walkathon chairman of West Harrison County March of Dimes and campaign director of March of Dimes.

He is a member of the board of directors of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce and was formerly associated with Hancock Bank.

He and his wife, the former Jacqueline Ledbetter, live in Gulfport and are members of the Long Beach First Baptist Church.

Artificial breeding pays off

It will pay dairymen to breed their cows artificially and then raise all of the heifer calves. Here are some suggestions for more successfully doing this.

Give the dry cow a 60-day rest period with extra feed and care.

Provide a clean place for calving. Disinfect the calf's navel at birth with iodine.

Be double sure that the calf gets the cow's first milk (colostrum) within 15 minutes after birth, if possible. Feed the colostrum milk the first three days.

Place the calf in an individual pen and practice cleanliness and sanitation at all times.

The honoree was presented a corsage of white carnations interspersed with miniature baby rattles.

LIME

Soybean growers need to take another look at their lime needs. Where soil pH is below 5.6, bean yields are sharply reduced and proper lime use could improve yields as much as 10 bushels per acre.

According to the most recent Extension soils test summary, about 35 percent of our soybean land may fit into this category of critical soil acidity. Another 29 percent of the land should also be limed to prevent future acidity problems.

The need is so great that portion of their land each producers should begin a year, beginning with the most systematic program to lime a acid first.

Washington Report

By: Rep. Trent Lott

If you've had a sneaking suspicion that crime has been on the rise in recent years, your worst fears have been confirmed in the FBI's 1974 Crime Report.

To say the least, it was a banner year for the average criminal.

A typical day in 1974, the FBI says, saw a murder every 26 minutes, a forcible rape every 10 minutes, a robbery every 71 seconds, burglary every 10 seconds, and assault with intent to kill every 70 seconds. Chances are, at least one of those occurred near your home.

Actually, those figures tell only part of the story. The Attorney General has conservatively estimated that as much as a third of all violent crimes go completely unreported.

Those are national figures, of course, and don't necessarily reflect the extent of crime in the Fifth Congressional District. While south Mississippi does not have as much crime as some areas of the country, we still have plenty to be worried about.

It's hard to pick up a daily newspaper, even in Mississippi, and not read about a criminal act. And it's been that way for years.

Since 1960, for example, murder has increased by 125 percent, assault with intent to kill by about 230 percent, forcible rape roughly 224 percent, and robbery by more than 300 percent. Again, those figures are based on reported crime only.

Now for the bad news. For every 130 serious crimes, only 20 percent result in arrests and only five percent actually lead to convictions.

So what can we do about this ugly picture? What can Congress do to reduce the rate of crime?

For starters, we can begin to worry more about society and less about the rights of the criminal. If someone is apprehended for a crime, convicted in a court of law, and sentenced to a prison term, he should serve that full prison term. The criminal should not be put back on the streets without paying a price.

One disturbing fact pointed out by the FBI is that 70 percent of all those who have been through the criminal justice system return to prison. That should tell us something about the theory of rehabilitation and reeducation of the "deprived" criminal.

I'm not saying that we should abandon the idea of rehabilitation. But I do think we should begin to think chiefly in terms of correction and punishment.

Consecutive sentences, in my view, should be re-introduced to our judicial system. Under the prevailing method of concurrent sentencing, a criminal may just as well rob 10 establishments instead of one, for with concurrent sentences his sentences run at the same time rather than consecutively.

Congress made the problem even worse last year when both the House and the Senate approved the Parole Reorganization Act of 1975 - over my strenuous objections. One of the provisions of the Act would shift the burden of acceptability for parole from the convicted inmate to the Parole Commission, thus fostering the impression that parole is a RIGHT rather than a privilege.

As we begin this second session of 94th Congress, I plan to continue to insist that we re-evaluate the mistaken notion that criminals are privileged people. It's time we thought more about the rights and privileges of the criminal's innocent victims.

Bicentennial News

by Joe Pilet

A national interfaith Bicentennial song on Sunday, July 4, 1976, has been planned by Religious Communities, the Arts, and the American Revolution.

The nation's 235 religious bodies with their 28,000 congregations and 160,000 members are asked to promote the singing of such places as parks, beaches, churches and city squares.

John McKenna, coordinator of the Hancock County Bay-Waveland Bicentennial Committee, brought these plans to the attention of his committee chairman, which voted to participate.

We'd like to say a word of praise about the Good Guys. Have you noticed and hopefully used those fourteen beautifully painted litter barrels that have been placed at convenient locations between DeMontluzin Ave. all the way to the Bay Bridge?

Life Scout Andy Buehler, who is now working toward his Eagle Badge, rounded up co-workers Stephen Johns, Nicholas Haas and Kevin Seeger, and these young men spent a number of hours painting the barrels in patriotic red, white and blue. The boys are members of Scout Troop 203 and their leader is Watson Johns. The Boy Scouts of America are our community leaders of tomorrow. They are getting excellent training and our future is in good hands. Our compliments and our gratitude - B.S.A. Troop 203.

A $25 check from Theodore S. Price Post No. 3253 was added this week to our library display case fund. This organization is to be complimented on many civic activities. Energetic workers have reported through Mrs. Harry Boudreaux, president, several accomplishments for our community's betterment.

A certificate of appreciation from the Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial Commission was recently presented to Robert Reimann, president of Reimann's Funeral Homes in recognition of leadership. This institution has financially backed our area's Boy Scout projects, and expanded facilities and services along the Gulf Coast.

A $50 donation from this firm has been deposited in our local Library Display Fund Account.

Margaret Shadon, who chairs the bicentennial education committee, invites all interested civic groups to take advantage of the free film service available through the U.S.F. & G. Companies.

Films are 16 mm prints of Thomas Edison, Robert E. Lee, Mark Twain, William Jennings Bryan, Sam Houston and Woodrow Wilson.

These films run 30 minutes and the only expense is the return postage after the showing. Application for the films of your choice may be obtained through Mrs. Shadon in the Insurance Department of Hancock Bank.

Special recognition goes to Lou Fernandez who is promoting the display of the American flag on public and private properties. Several new flags have been spotted. We hope all of our schools will cooperate by displaying their flags and encouraging students in the practice of flagpoles.

Members of Woodmen of the World, Cedar Grove Camp 517 in Bay St. Louis, chose a pretty day in June, 1968 to have their likeness captured on film. Their picture later appeared on a post card which was sent by relatives to Miss Annie Cronovich of Pass Christian.

Finch supporters

With heads bowed and umbrellas raised, inauguration spectators stand in the rain listening to benediction following Cliff Finch's installation as Mississippi's 57th governor. A steady drizzle accompanied most of the day's festivities.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir:

Did you know that your child may not be allowed to go to the bathroom? Put yourself in the position of this child. Did you make the human body? Is it wrong to have a bladder and intestines? Is it wrong to use these organs?

In WW II it was reported that the Japanese ran water hoses through the mouths of American prisoners and into their stomachs. Then the water was turned on until the victim burst. Is it wrong to put water into the stomach? Do we need to drink water?

Like the Japanese soldiers, why not allow teachers to tie a string around the penis of potential bathroom-goers? Instead of a string, the administration uses respect for teachers. When one parent complained to an administrator about a teacher not allowing their child to go to the bathroom he replied,

"Doesn't your son respect the position a teacher holds?" The administrator continued, "Many students are con-artists, and will do anything to get out of class for a few minutes. I personally told this teacher not to allow students out of the room to go to the bathroom," he continued.

My son respected his teacher and remained in class when she refused to allow him to go to the bathroom. That same night he was admitted into the emergency room of the hospital with severe stomach cramps!

The administrator would not allow me to talk with the teacher. He said, "it might upset the teacher."

I then went to a lawyer, but he said he doubted anything could be done legally since it would be very hard to prove that the teacher had intended to hurt the child.

This school board was informed, and they said they would phone me since they were very busy at that time. After many days, there has been no phone call.

Teachers cannot read a child's mind. Would it be better to allow a child out of the classroom to go to the bathroom when he really did not need to, or is it better to keep one from going that desperately needs to?

J. V. Pugh

'Horizons' Ideabook

The "Horizons '76 Ideabook," a fascinating and informative compilation of 24 exemplary Bicentennial projects, is now available from the Horizons Division of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

The national projects included in the booklet are meant to provide patterns for communities and organizations across the country still seeking an especially long-lasting way to commemorate the Bicentennial.

"Because these '76 'Horizons' projects, they are on-going. Many will last 50 to 60 years beyond 1976," explains Mrs. Charles Hall, Program Manager of 'Horizons '76.

The "Horizons '76 Ideabook" is a free publication. Requests should be mailed to: Horizons '76 Ideabook, American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, 2401 E Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20026.

Permanent life insurance plan advised for veterans

Veterans holding National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) policies are encouraged by the Veterans Administration to convert their policies to permanent life insurance. The VA counselors are directing their attention to the remaining 1.5 million policyholders.

Term insurance premiums increase sharply at each renewal after age 50, often increasing a hardship on the policyholder. While premium rates for permanent plans are higher than for term policies, they are constant throughout the life of the policy.

The VA stresses that the decision to convert from term to a permanent insurance plan must be based on the veteran's present and future needs for insurance, its cost and the veteran's ability to pay for the coverage.

The VA offers a number of permanent plans of insurance, all of which offer cash and loan values while avoiding future premium increases. Included are modified life plans, ordinary life, limited payment life and endowments.

Veterans now receiving insurance dividends will continue to receive them after conversion, the amounts depending on the new insurance plan. Policyholders who purchased paid-up additions to their term insurance will be permitted to retain the paid-up additions with the new permanent plan.

Complete information on insurance coverage and counseling on conversion options is available at all VA offices.

Reed proposes dates for GOP conventions

State Republican Chairman Clarke Reed said last week that, based on the recommendations the Party has received and the dates of holidays and school vacations, he would propose March 2 to the GOP State Executive Committee as the date for precinct and county conventions and April 10 as the date for district and state conventions.

"These two Saturday's should allow maximum participation," Reed said.

Reed, who has asked all Republicans to make recommendations to the group, said, "When we meet Thursday, we will make final decisions on these matters. Our goal is to make sure our decisions lead to maximum participation by all Republicans in the process of selecting the Party's delegates and choosing its leaders on both local and state levels."

"These dates should allow Republicans interested in running for Party office plenty of time to solicit support and give all Party members an ample period to participate in the activity leading up to the precinct conventions, which, of course, are the cornerstone of the process," the Southern GOP leader concluded.

Casseroles are for all occasions

Casserole, one-dish meal, covered dish - whatever you call it, the result may be one answer to rising food costs.

There are many occasions when a casserole may be the best choice for a meal. The convenience of the casserole, its "meal-in-a-dish" feature, and its popularity as a way to use leftovers are all familiar advantages. You can make up a casserole several hours ahead then place it in the refrigerator until you're ready to cook it. Many casseroles lend themselves well to freezing. Make up several, serve one and freeze the others for later use.

You can save fuel energy by baking several casseroles at one time, one of meat, a vegetable and a dessert.

You can use many inexpensive foods in casserole dishes. Choose those that look and taste well together and those that your family likes. Cook large enough quantities for left-over or "planned overs" to use in a casserole.

You can buy good ingredients to make a good casserole, but you can save pennies by selecting food appropriate for your use. Canned tomatoes to go into casseroles need not be fancy, or the most expensive. Shape isn't important in most casserole recipes, so there's no need to pay for it. Grated tuna usually costs less than chunk-style, but the flavor is the same.

During the days ahead and year round-enjoy lots of good eating from casserole dishes. Here are two casseroles you might like to try.

CARROTS AND BEANS
6 to 8 carrots
15 small whole onions
1 1/2 cups green beans
1/3 cup hot water
1/4 cup honey
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Wash, scrape, or pare, and cut carrots into narrow strips. Place in bottom of a greased 1 1/2-quart casserole. Arrange small onions over carrots. Cut beans into thin strips and place over onions in casserole. Mix together the water, honey, salt and monosodium glutamate and pour over vegetables. Dot generously with butter or margarine and bake at 350 degrees F. for 45 to 60 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Remove cover and bake 10 to 15 minutes longer, or until lightly browned. Yield: 6 servings.

"QUICKIE" BEEF CASSEROLE
2 cups chopped cooked roast beef
1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 drops Tabasco sauce
1 can cream of celery soup
1 small jar pimiento, chopped
2 hard cooked eggs, sliced
1/2 cup grated cheese
Mix tomato sauce, onion, salt and Tabasco. Pour 1/2 cup of sauce in bottom of 1 1/2-quart casserole; cover with layer of chopped roast beef; next a layer of celery soup, thinned if necessary; sprinkle thin layer of chopped pimiento over mixture; cover this with layer of hard-cooked egg slices; sprinkle with a layer of grated cheese. Repeat until all ingredients are used, ending with a layer of sauce. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F. for 30 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

Here are a few points you should consider for successful

UNIVERSITY, Miss. - Migrant children, their academic achievement and self-concepts, and the attitudes of teachers and school administrators toward such children, are being studied by the Ole Miss Bureau of Educational Research. Approximately 4,500 migrant students attend the 22 Mississippi school districts having some type of migrant education program. The research, directed by Dr. Bob Cage, is funded by a $28,000 grant from the State Department of Educational Administration.

casseroles. Use foods that go together from the standpoint of flavor, texture and color; keep pieces of food in identifiable sizes and shapes; remember that the casserole will absorb some of the liquid during baking, so don't make the sauce too thick; use your imagination in seasoning - try various herbs and spices; vary toppings - fluffy-mashed potatoes, cooked rice, corn-bread batter, ready-to-bake biscuits or rolls, roasted almonds; investigate the wide variety of canned soups for added flavor and ease of preparation. Compare cost of soups to white sauce made with liquid of the vegetables used. Casserole recipes are not precise. It's up to you to add or subtract seasonings and other ingredients according to what your family prefers and what's on hand.

Lackadaisical meaning indolent comes from the early English alackaday; an exclamation of lighthearted dismissal of care.

Ole Miss era

Gibbs, Tarkenton years to be featured nationally

UNIVERSITY: Memories of the collegiate football era featured in the Southeast by Jake Gibbs and Fran Tarkenton are uncovered in the February issue of Sport Magazine.

Tarkenton, who starred at Georgia during the Gibbs' seasons at Ole Miss, 1959-60, was honored by Sport Magazine as the Performer of the Year.

And Gibbs is featured in a spread titled, "DIDN'T YOU USED TO BE...Bated Ahead of Fran Tarkenton?"

Many are called but few are chosen, and Gibbs was the chosen footballer in 1959, the unanimous All-American quarterback that season.

That same year, he had hit .300 in baseball and had an All-American season at third base for the Rebels' SEC champions in that sport, only the third collegiate to earn authentic All-American status.

Let's visit with constituents

WASHINGTON: Congressman Frank Lott (R-Miss.) today announced that he will visit Saturday, Jan. 24, with constituents in Bay St. Louis, Miss.

Lott said that he plans to visit informally in stores and on the streets throughout the afternoon. He plans to culminate the day with a 7 p.m. address at a Law Enforcement Assistance Administration dinner.

"I like to get out and hear what the people have on their minds," he explained. "I believe that I owe it to the people to hear them out on the issues. I also want them to feel free to talk with me about any problem they might have with any federal agency."

Lott urged constituents to contact his office in Washington.

In both sports. The article, by Tom Murray, tells how Jake was confronted with the problem of which sport to choose professionally. And the cash bonus in baseball, reported to be $110,000, was not the only factor involved.

"Sure there was the money factor, but I loved football, too," Gibbs explained. "The decision I finally reached was based on the fact that I had played baseball longer and felt that I'd have a longer career playing baseball instead of football."

For Thomas, general manager of the Baltimore Colts, in 1961, the scout who signed Tarkenton with the Minnesota Vikings after extensively scouting both him and Gibbs, had one objective opinion of whether Gibbs should have taken football over baseball.

"You know, it's funny," recalled Thomas, "but I never considered Jake Gibbs as a potential NFL quarterback. I thought he'd make one helluva defensive back, though."

John Vaughn, Ole Miss athletic director and coach of the Rebels 1947-59, during Gibbs' college seasons, put the question better people would have been asking: "I've seen Tarkenton play and he and Jake are very similar. At that point, I didn't know if he was a playmaker or a playmaker on the field. That's the sign of a winner. Now you can't play in both sports. Jake always came to me."

Gibbs has never regretted the decision made to go the baseball route. "Of course," he adds, "I often wonder about how I might have done, that's only natural. But I've never regretted my decision."

Not even when the Yankees converted him from an infielder into a catcher. As for the highlight in focus on both Tarkenton and Gibbs in 1959 and 1960, their junior-senior seasons, Gibbs correlated the all-star ratings as a senior with All-American and All-Southeastern Competitions. That season, he completed 46 of 104 passes for a 44 percent completion mark. His passes totaled 970 yards and a dozen touchdowns. He also rushed 124 yards that season in total offense. He played superb defense at safety and posted 24 times for a 3 1/2 yard average.

Gibbs, Tarkenton threw and completed more passes in 1960 than did Gibbs. He completed 109 of 185 for 1183 yards and seven touchdowns. The completion rate was 59.4. He also led the SEC in total offense, 1274 yards to Gibbs' 1210.

But the year before, with Gibbs sharing Rebel quarterbacking with Bobby Franklin, Tarkenton had been named the all-SEC quarterback even though Gibbs led the league in total offense. He accumulated 983 yards that season, Alabama had 818 and Tarkenton 797.

As a collegian, Gibbs could do it all — run, punt, play defense. By land, his running matched his passing in competence and explosiveness.

And the Rebels, who were FWAA national champions in 1960 as well as the SEC kings, went 10-0-1 that season, 10-1-0 in 1959 when they were named The Team of the Decade (1950-59) in the Conference, and 9-2-0 in 1958, posting a combined 29-3-1 record through Gibbs' three seasons, including Gator (1958) and Sugar Bowl (1960-61) victories over Florida, LSU and Rice.

Ole Miss to basket Vols in SEC TV game, Saturday

UNIVERSITY: Somewhere along the basketball trail this winter, Ole Miss is going to waylay a front-runner in Southeastern Conference play, and it just might be Tennessee here Saturday.

The Rebels and Vols collide at 1 p.m. in the regional TV showing of the week, with Coach Robert "Cob" Jarvis' team at home after a disastrous three-loss string to the road. Without a win in five SEC states and with a 4-10 overall worksheet, the Rebels need an about face in a hurry.

And while few members of this season's Ole Miss squad recall last season's results, there's precedence in the Ole Miss outlook. For Jarvis-coached teams have strung together three consecutive championships over the Vols.

The Rebels won a year ago in overtime, 68-61, scored at 93.3 in 1974 and won a 60-52 game here in 1973.

With three marksmen in double figures, Tennessee is a formidable machine this season, the SEC favorite to succeed the 1975 co-champions, Kentucky and Alabama.

The Vol record in league warfare is 4-1 following home victories over Florida, 93-84, and Auburn, 83-78 last Monday. Starting on the road, they defeated Georgia 79-73 and Kentucky in overtime 90-88 before losing a 77-66 decision to Vanderbilt in Nashville. Overall, Coach Ray Mears' nationally-ranked team is 11-2.

Forwards Bernard King with a 26.0 average and Ernie Grunfeld at 25.5 and guard Mike Jackson with 17.4 points a game front Vol scoring. They have been scoring at a 50.6 percentage pace from the field.

Alabama retained its berth atop current SEC standings for a 5-1 record by spanking the Rebels 64-41 Monday night. Tennessee is a half-game behind at 4-1.

The loss to the Tide followed a 100-75 reversal at LSU Jan.

10 and a 65-54 reversal at Mississippi State last Saturday. The Rebels opened SEC warfare by losing at home to Florida and Auburn. Those scores were 70-58 and 72-66.

Unless he revamps his lineup, Jarvis will continue to start a pair of freshmen, two junior college transfers and one holdover starter from last season's outfit.

That would send 6-6 1/2 Walter Actwood and 6-7 Ronnie Davis in as starters at forwards. Gene Harris, 6-7 juco graduate, will open at center and John Billips, 6-4 1/2 jucoee product, and Henry Jackson, 6-foot freshman, are the guards.

Actwood is the lone Reb in the lineup, starting in last winter's overtime decision past the Vols.

Harris at 14.2, Billips at 12.4 and Actwood at 11.3 are the Reb sharpshooters in double figures. Davis is averaging 9.1 points and Jackson's game average is 3.7.

For a change, the Rebels will not be giving away a lot of height in rebounding. King at 6-7 is the Vols' tallest starter. Grunfeld plays at 6-6, center. Dough Ashworth at 6-6, Jackson at 6-3 and guard Johnny Darden, the freshman point man, at 5-10.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white knit fashioned with an empire waist, long sleeves and long train. Mississippi, its musicians and artists, featured by JA

Mississippi in Concert is the title of the 28th concert hour to be presented from 3:30 - 4:30 p.m. Sunday over radio station WPUP by the Bay Junior Auxiliary.

Compiled and edited by the group, technical advisor and program host is George Suter.

The first in the 1976 series, the concert will feature Mississippi artists and composers exclusively.

Two of the selections, "Casey Jones" and "Midnight Special," revive memories of the old railroading days.

From folksong, the Casey epic recalls an event in 1900, when Jones raced a train out of Memphis, Tenn., bound for Canton, Miss. Departing behind schedule, and acting in relief of a sick engineer, Casey kept the throttle open when, clocking 70 miles per hour and gaining, a stalled train blocked the mainline outside of Vaughan, Miss.

The "Midnight Special," cut by Harry Belafonte, tells of a "special" out of Yazoo City over the old Y&M.V. R.R. steaming to Parchman two or three times a year and packed with relatives of prisoners who could only see their "loved ones" on the fifth Sunday of the month.

KANTCHA

KETCHUM

By L.S. (Doc) Elliott

Our weather the past couple of weeks has been normal, cold fronts coming in, warming trends in a couple of days. This, of course, affects fishing.

Extremely low tides take the water out. Speckle trout are caught best on rising tides. Bass fishing is best on falling tides, but the tide has been rising in the afternoons for the past two weeks and bass have been caught. How can you figure it?

Those going for fresh water fish have been catching them. Alden Mauffray and Perre Quintini made a nice catch of bass last Wednesday. Had a couple of two pounders. Underwater baits are proving most effective at this time. Especially the beetle spins.

It takes all kinds of sports to make up this column. Phillip Scafidu admittedly isn't good at fishing and hunting, but is the best at playing poker and gin. He claims he was taught.

by the finest, his cousin, John Scafidu, Sr.

Bobby Lewis said she landed a big shark at Eddie's Bar. Didn't know you could catch fish in a bar.

Bobby Heitzmann is an ardent fisherman and hunter, but right now he is busy getting his float ready for the carnival parades. Connie, his wife, can think of nothing but their approaching trip to Disney World.

Don Favre and wife, Dawn are two real sports. They love fishing, hunting and traveling. Don said he is not much at playing poker, but claims to be an expert at Boo-Ray.

Donald Compretta is new at fly fishing. He can't wait until spring to get back to it. Why wait, Don, bass are being caught now. It's a thrill to catch a bass on a popping bug.

To prove it, bass are being caught down at Ansley, going out from LaFrance's Camp. In the Pipe Line Canal, at Grand Plain Bayou and near by canals we understand.

Bass can be caught between cold fronts provided the water is around 50 degrees or more. They are still hitting popping bugs and underwater baits like the Beetle Spin, etc. Understand two fresh water fishermen caught their limit last Wednesday. Saw the fish, they were beautiful.

It all comes to him who waits. John Scafidu, Jr. is a papa. His wife, Jean, presented him with a fine baby boy. He is to be named John A. Scafidu, III. Let me teach him how to fish, hunt and play golf, like I did you, John. Congratulations.

C. J. Heitzmann has finally completed his house. He is now waiting for the weather to get right to go fishing and soft crabbing. Won't be long, C. J.

John Genin said he has been too busy to participate in sports. That's not true. Sneaks in a little golf and fishing now and then. Remember John, all work and no play makes John a dull boy!

Ever try steaming hard crabs? They are mighty good when prepared this way.

When boiling hard crabs take an ice pick and puncture the shell. This allows seasoning to penetrate the meat.

Did you know that a lost or damaged license cannot be replaced unless you detach the stub and store it in a safe place. Fishing in Mississippi.

I received a letter from Mrs. R. S. Williams from up in the county. She said:

"Every time you write about floundering, I drool. Love flounders and we want to go floundering so much. Bought new gigs last summer and the time and the tides have just not been synchronized for us. Keep hoping we'll make it SOON."

Won't be too long now Mrs. Williams, floundering starts in March.

Sorry to report the death of Peter Sick of Bay St. Louis. He was one of our older sportsmen. Sympathy is extended to the family.

You don't need an expensive casting or fly rod to catch bass and perch. All that is necessary is the old time perch pole provided you use live earth worms, crickets, minnows, etc. You don't have to use a boat as fishing from the bank will pay off. Use a cork and small sinker. Drop the bait preferably where there are lily pads or among tree tops. The success will be amazing. The best time to fish this way is when the fish are spawning.

Timmy Choina who is an avid hunter celebrated his 17th birthday at a large party at his Nicholson home on Friday, Jan. 9th.

Saima Adams thought that she left cold weather behind when she came to Waveland from Ironwood, Michigan. Saima is visiting her son George and family. They hope to get in some fishing, but find the weather too chilly.

VFW auxiliaries to carry forth bicentennial at mid-winter conference

The Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary will carry the theme "Spirit of our Times" to their mid-winter conference to be held in Jackson January 23-25. The Bicentennial theme will be featured throughout the conference.

State President Jean Wondard of Gulfport will welcome national chaplain Arlene McDermott of Concord, New Hampshire.

A former administrative assistant in the U.S. Attorney's office in Concord, Mrs. McDermott was Auxiliary Youth Director in 1964-65 and is presently a volunteer in the V.A. program "Veteran-Returns-to-Community". She is past president of New Hampshire Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Details and full information on two major Bicentennial projects in which the State of Mississippi is participating will be included in the order of business at the conference.

The erection of the "Torch of Freedom" in Washington, D.C., a monument designed by Felix DeWeldon to honor our soldiers, sailors, marines, airmen and Coast Guard members is a nationwide

VFW and Auxiliary project. Auxiliaries and members are helping finance the "Torch of Freedom" monument by the purchase of Bicentennial Post Cards, 24 historic and "keepsake" miniatures in full color.

The other featured discussion will be details of the "HAPPY BIRTHDAY, AMERICA" campaign where each of the 6,907 local Auxiliaries has received a beautiful American Flag as a Bicentennial gift from the National VFW Auxiliary. Each of these Auxiliaries has been requested to display the Gift Flag and present additional flags to other community groups.

Other highlights of the mid-winter conference will include the presentation of the Voice of Democracy State winner, Gloria Anne Neill of Ellisville, sponsored by Laurel Post No. 3042 and Auxiliary. The Assistant Adjutant General of the VFW, Curtis M. Jewell will address the joint meeting of the VFW and Auxiliary. There will also be a Bicentennial costume ball and a banquet.

Dixie's Prince outlasts Perry's Gem in rematch

(Special to The Echo) PEARL RIVER, La. — It didn't take long for Dixie's Prince to gain revenge after running last in the eighth race here Sunday at Oak Downs.

In fact, revenge came in the ninth race. Perry's Gem won the eighth race which was run over the unusually short distance of 50 yards. Bar Cass was second and Dixie's Prince finished third.

However, because there were no other races scheduled on the program, a match was made following the eighth and it pitted Perry's Gem against Dixie's Prince over a distance of 220 yards.

First out, first across...

Rosewall to defend Tennis South title

Tennis South Invitational has named Ken Rosewall to play in the World Championship Tennis event in Jackson at the Mississippi Coliseum, March 17-21. It was announced today.

Rosewall, winner of last year's TSI tourney, will be returning to compete against Raul Ramirez, John Alexander, and Brian Gottfried who have already been announced as participants in the $60,000, 16 man event.

A slightly built, 5'7", 150 pounder, Rosewall, or "Muscles" as he is known in tennis circles, burst on the international tennis scene in 1952 and is still going strong. He is a two-time WCT Champion, winning titles in 1971 and 1972. In 1973, he reached the WCT Finals; he hasn't played WCT since 1973, and this year has a limited contract with WCT. Though not playing as much on the tournament circuit, he will play in the Avis Challenge Cup matches in Hawaii along with seven of the other top players in the world.

Rosewall reached the Wimbledon finals four times, starting in 1954, and the last time was in 1974. He won the Australian title four times and the U. S. Open twice, the French Open two times and has consistently been ranked as one of the top players in the world for twenty years. Recently he won the Commercial Union Swiss Championship.

The popular Australian and his wife, Wilma, who also was in Jackson for the tournament last year, have two sons, Brett and Glen. Rosewall will also conduct a free tennis clinic for children, ages eight to 18, on Saturday morning during the tournament. The clinic is sponsored by S. C. Rogers and Sons.

WCT has chosen Jackson and TSI as one of 25 cities in the world to host a 1976 WCT-qualifying tournament. TSI is sponsored by the Junior League of Jackson and all net proceeds from the tournament are returned to the community through the League's projects.

Tournament chairman, Sherry Greener, said about Rosewall, "We especially wanted Ken back because he is the defending champion and was so very popular here last year—and it is evident that he is obviously interested in returning to Jackson because his playing here will be over and above the number of tournaments required by his WCT contract. We've been in touch with him since last year and are extremely pleased to be able to announce him as one of our players."

Advance tickets may be ordered by writing Tennis, Box 4542, Jackson, Miss. 39216. Reserved Series tickets are $100; Sponsor, $50; and VIP, $30. Unreserved Series tickets are Adult Series, $20, and Student Series, $8. These Series tickets are good for all matches. The Coliseum Box Office will open March 8 at 10 a.m. - 2:30 p.m. for sale of daily tickets.

Junior colleges seek increase

Mississippi junior colleges are asking the recently convened state legislature for a 17 percent increase in state support funds (from $20.2 million to $23.8 million), but the legislative budget committee has recommended an increase of only $7 million, based upon the projected revenue for the coming year.

"We hope that they will be able to revise their estimate upward at the end of February," said Marvin R. White, president of the Mississippi Junior College President's Association. "We don't feel that money will be quite as tight as the committee estimates."

"Of course, if the money isn't there, it isn't there," added White. "We are not expecting the impossible. All we ask is that we be accorded the same treatment as four-year colleges and the universities."

Also coming up before Congress is a bill introduced by a legislative delegation from Northeast Junior College. The bill, if it is passed, will allow Northeast to change their designation from "junior college" to "community college."

"It is felt that 'community college' better describes the community oriented, widely diversified institutions that the junior colleges have become," commented President White. "The implications of junior, that of a small, primarily academic college, are no longer valid. We offer programs in a variety of fields, tailored to the needs of the community that we serve."

While Pearl River is not actively supporting the bill at this time, White indicated that he would favor the change "if and when."

In the next two weeks, White and the president of Jones Junior College, Dr. Terrell Tisdale, will be meeting with State Rep. E. J. McCallum, highway commissioner, to discuss having signs indicating the presence of Jones and PRC placed on the interstate highway.

Said White, "Many other schools have been accorded this service and we are no reason that we should be treated any differently from anyone else."

Greg Necaie promoted by 1st Mississippi

Greg Necaie, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Necaie Jr., Bay St. Louis, has been promoted to vice president in the Marketing Division of First Mississippi National Bank.

Necaie is a Bay native and graduated from Bay High School and Pearl River Junior College. He has been with the bank since 1974.

He also attended the National Investment Credit School at the University of Colorado. Necaie is married to the former Martha Jean Stearns and the couple has two children.
